PROFILES

The many profiles of you as students come alive--your enthusiasm, your varied interests, your fine sense of loyalty, and your potential for the future--these make your profile satisfactory and rewarding to look back upon.

DEDICATION

The annual staff has dedicated the 1965 Buckeye to Mr. Ralph O. Royer, a pillar to the task of improving education throughout his many years of teaching.

During thirty-seven years in this school system, Mr. Royer held several important positions: basketball coach, principal, assistant principal, and teacher of social studies and English. He graduated from Otterbein College with a Bachelor of Arts degree and later received his Master of Arts from Miami University.

Although Mr. Royer was not with the class of 1965 during its senior year, each member will always remember the interest, energy, and enthusiasm which he displayed in his responsibilities. His habit of standing at the front door after the last bell and smiling his good-by as the pupils hurried to their buses will never be forgotten.

The staff has the hope that this dedication will help to portray its admiration and respect for HIM.

First to arrive, last to leave, Mr. Royer was always available to chaperon school activities. Mrs. Royer, the school secretary for eleven years, often accompanied him.

Mr. Royer, father of two boys and two girls, was a Sunday School teacher for many years at the Waterhouse E.U.B. Church. In addition to his love of traveling, he finds enjoyment in reading, cooking, eating, and boating.

ADMINISTRATORS

MR. MERLE BRYON, B.S., M.S. - Miami University

The facilities and the educational opportunities of the Mississinawa Valley Schools are made available to all the youth of our community for the purpose of preparing students to live a purposeful, happy, and worthwhile life. The need for advanced educational and technological training is becoming greater every day. To enable students to meet the demands of present and future societies, it is imperative that they take advantage of the opportunities which have been made available. Only through education, can we preserve and foster the democratic ideals and principles which are the foundation of our democratic way of life.

May I extend sincere congratulations to the graduating class of 1965.

GUIDED THE PROFILES

MR. ROBERT BROWN
Ohio State University, B. S., M. S.

In his second year as the Jackson Building Principal, Mr. Brown has improved the school by introducing new policies. Increased school enrollment has necessitated a revised lunch schedule and a season ticket policy for athletics. This year he has fulfilled the duties of a guidance counselor also.

Before coming to the Valley, Mr. Brown taught social studies for one year at West Homes Local School in West Homes, Ohio. While at Ohio State he participated in intramural ball and often officiated athletic games.

MR. WAYNE BREWER
Ohio Northern University, B. S.
Ball State Teachers College, M. A.

The Union City Building Principal, Mr. Brewer, has spent thirty-three years in this school district, five in his present position. He taught elementary, junior high, and senior high classes at the Jackson Building, and junior high industrial arts at the Union City Building.

MR. BILL BACK
Eastern State College, A. B., M. S.

Mr. Back, who received his Master's Degree in administration last year, has been the assistant principal at the Jackson Building this year. His many duties have kept him extremely busy. In addition to teaching four classes, he has been head track coach.

AGRICULTURE: SOIL,

MR. BRADLEY G. PATRICK, B.S., M.S.

Mr. Patrick encouraged each student to search for the goals of maturity, to take training beyond high school, and therefore make their place in society.

Mr. Patrick's hobbies focus on working with people, reading, woodworking, and working with animals. His special interest is traveling.

Each Monday evening at the Jackson Building Mr. Patrick taught an adult farm class which had the largest enrollment in the district.

Somewhat hidden in a garb of coveralls and goggles, boys in vocational agriculture learned the principles of handling the acetylene welder.

At left, Rick Brooks and Micky Whitesel worked on lawn chairs and bunk feeders - one of the many projects in woodworking.

Diligent study in farm management and farm production increased the boys' knowledge of the "business" end of farming.

TOOLS, LEADERSHIP

Skills in wood and metal working were an essential part of vocational agriculture. Here, Gene Wine and Steve Amspaugh demonstrated the use of the power drill and the dexterity of cleaning machine parts.

Learning the proper way of using and handling these machines constituted only a fraction of the subjects which were taught in Mr. Patrick's three agricultural classes.

To increase the boys' knowledge of judging standards, many judging trips were made to near-by farms. On these judging trips each boy graded and judged his animal with care and unlimited details. Mr. Patrick, who frequently drove the bus to many of the events, was always willing to help each student with his specific problem.

TRAINING FOR

MRS. MILDRED PATRICK, A.B.

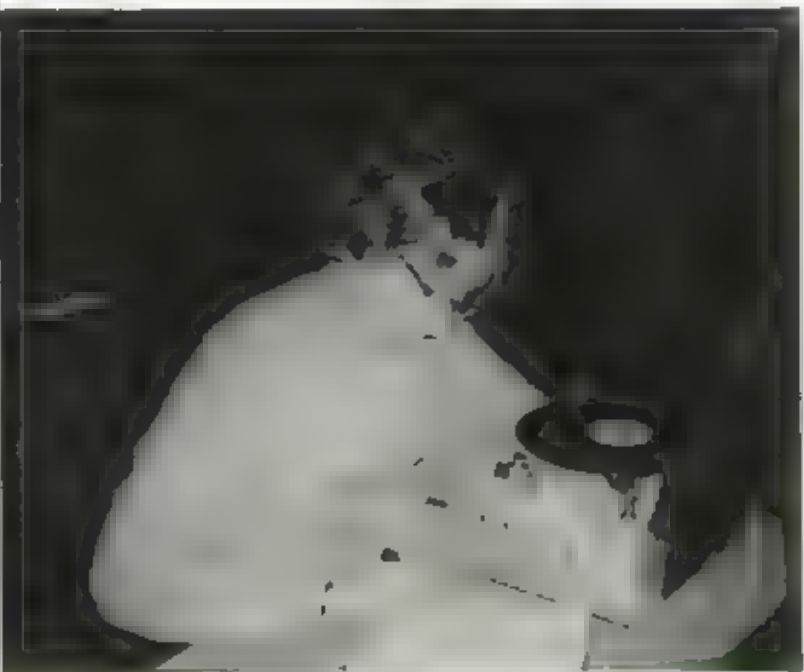

Mrs. Patrick "sells" her students on entering the business world. This peerless saleswoman gave instruction to qualify students for holding responsible office positions. Besides teaching typing, shorthand, office practice, economics, and sales, she gave expert advice to the Buckeye staff and the Valley Hi-Lites staff as Advisor.

The culmination of the semester's work in Sales was each classmember's sales Demonstration.

Taking shorthand by the use of records simulated the actual practice in the business world.

Typing students developed speed and accuracy as they typed problems, business letters, and manuscripts. This class is almost a necessity for college-bound pupils.

Union City, Indiana

A FUTURE CAREER

The operation of business machines occupied one grading term in Office Practice.

Students who learned the technique of filing developed the concept of organization and neatness.

Members of the Office Practice class who published the Valley Hi-Lites were Karen Short, editor; Diane Timmerman, co-editor; Barbara Subler, sports; Linda Turner, elementary; Susan Goughnour, high school; Carol Byrd, mimeographer; and John Hurst, business manager.

IN BUSINESS

MRS. JOYCE YARBROUGH, B.S.

Harmony was the key atmosphere in the General Business and Bookkeeping classes. Besides being employed part time at MV, she served as a typing instructor in the Adult Education Program in the community. She spends her leisure time golfing, reading, and knitting.

The General Business students planned detailed itineraries, including food, lodging, and transportation costs, for their individual trips to localities in Ohio.

Students in Bookkeeping learned by doing. They completed two practice sets to prepare them for actual accounting work in business.

MR. CLIFFORD FRENCH, A.B., M.A.

A glance into the shop discovered Mr. French, Industrial Arts, instructor, busily working with his pupils. He observed during his first year at MVHS that the students displayed sufficient knowledge and proficiency to elect a vocation in Industrial Arts.

A graduate of Ball State, Mr. French received his Master's Degree from Indiana University. Although he has lived in the city, he now enjoys a farm home north of Muncie, Indiana.

INDUSTRIAL ARTS

The Shop I and II classes studied Drafting the first semester; the second semester they completed a diversified course in wood-working.

These vocational courses covered three double-period classes.

TOMORROW'S

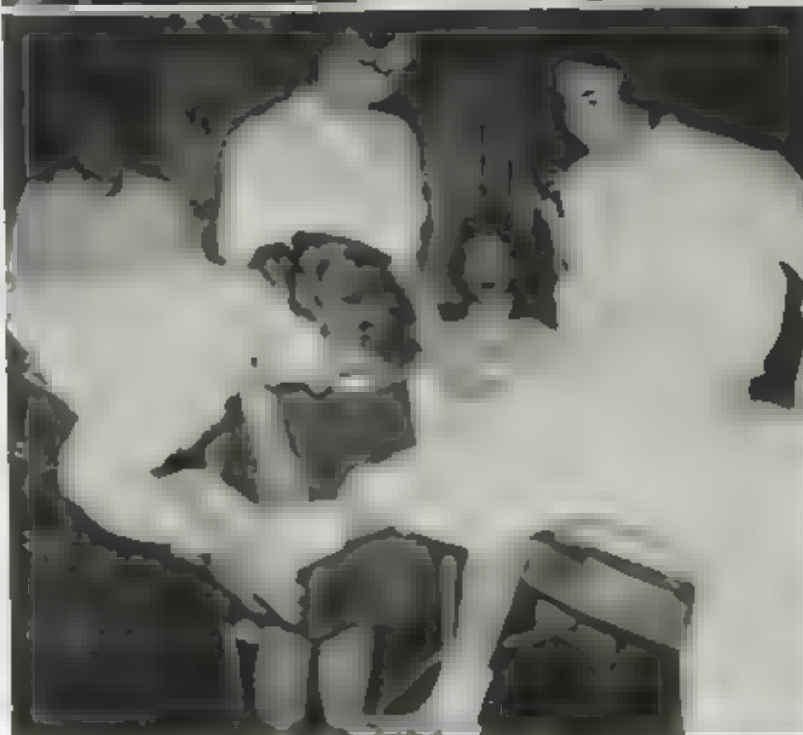

MRS. ELAINE AMBURGEY, B.S.

Sewing and cooking are the "natural" enjoyments of Mrs. Amburgey, Home Economics Teacher. In addition to the common homemaking skills, she taught various units such as First Aid, and Marriage and Family Living. Her cheerful personality was contagious throughout the entire school.

HELP! The Sophomore Home Ec. girls utilized their knowledge of First Aid while practicing on "patients."

Besides preparing tasty meals, the cooking classes learned correct table manners for hostess and guests.

HOMEMAKERS

DO NOT ENTER! The sewing classes adjusted their garments often to assure a correct fit. The Junior and Senior girls completed these smart pajama sets.

Each Senior girl planned her future wedding from the announcement of it, to the last glass of punch. They then filled their bridal books in their hope chests.

POETRY, PROSE,

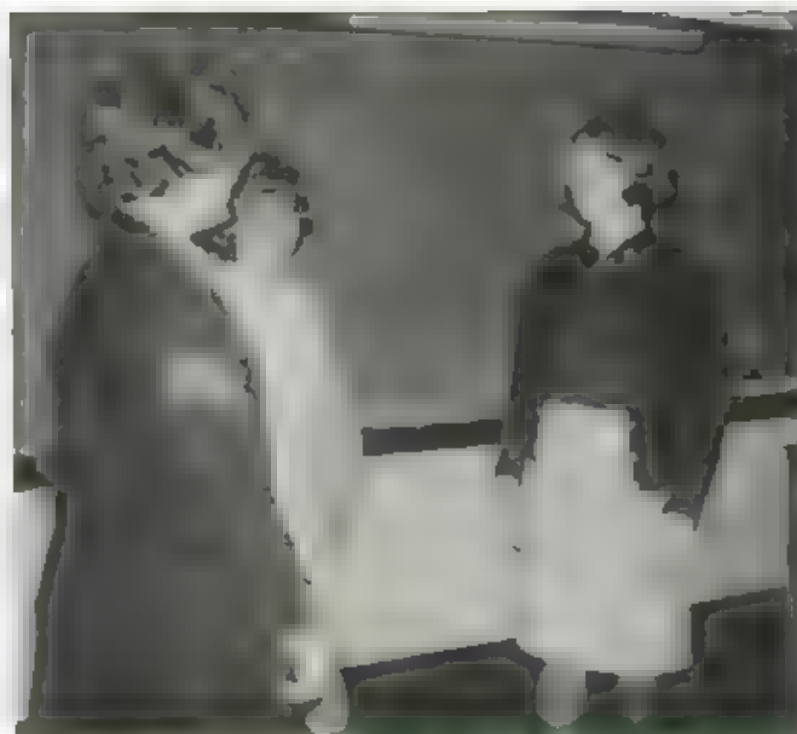

MRS. HELEN JEFFERIS, A.B.

The Senior and Junior English classes were pleased that Mrs. Jefferis, after an absence of eleven years, decided to return to the teaching profession. Besides teaching six English classes, she taught one Speech course.

Her many interests include cooking, knitting, reading, and coin collecting. Housekeeping and watching TV are definitely not her hobbies.

Mrs. Jefferis listened to the oral reports which each Junior English student gave on American-authored books. Senior students reported on books with English authors.

Included in Speech class was a course in making correct introductions.

A lectern was used by many students to provide "moral" support.

PUNCTUATION, AND GRAMMAR

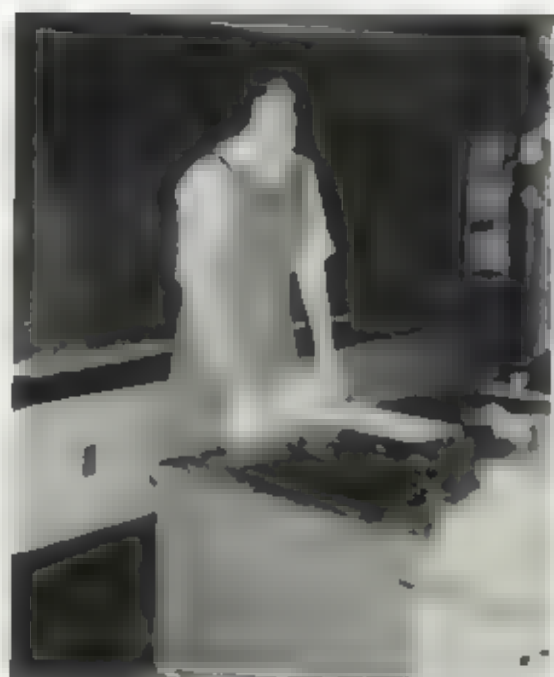

MRS. DIXIE MARSHALL, A.B.

The library was in the capable hands of Mrs. Marshall, English instructor. She efficiently organized the crowded library facilities to include several hundred new paperback books.

A graduate of Morehead State College, she finds that her two young children occupy most of her time, but her hobbies include reading and housework.

Freshman English was taught by both Mrs. Marshall and Miss Lechner. Mrs. Marshall's classes decorated their bulletin boards with articles of scholarly and amusing interest

MISS KAREN LECHNER, A.B.

Mississinawa was very fortunate to secure Miss Lechner to teach English and General Mathematics this year.

Fresh from Western College for Women in Oxford, Ohio, Miss Lechner, who wishes to travel to England some day, has a second home in Ontario where she works every summer. Her favorite pastimes are reading, writing, poetry, and playing her flute.

ENGLISH REQUISITES

MRS. THETIS GREENLEE, A.B.

A part-time teacher, Mrs. Greenlee taught Sophomore English, French I, and French II. She also fulfilled librarian duties during one morning period. A graduate of Indiana University, Mrs. Greenlee enjoys reading, playing bridge, and participating in lake activities.

Students in Sophomore English increased their understanding of "Julius Caesar" by enacting the play. The exploration of life through literature and the continuation of the study of grammar composed the course.

Mrs. Greenlee explained the use of French tapes and earphones to her first-year class.

BILINGUISTS EMPHASIZED

"Parlez-vous francais?"

Pupils in French II were able to listen to tapes with earphones which were loaned to the school on a try-out basis. The two-week period during which they were used was most beneficial. The entire class presented a short play in French and performed dances and songs for a student-body assembly.

"Veni, Vidi, Vici!"

Latin students discovered that good memorization work helped greatly in translating stories about Roman life, myths, and gods.

Mrs. Oswalt often explained complicated Latin conjugations and declensions by wrung them on the blackboard.

SOCIAL STUDIES

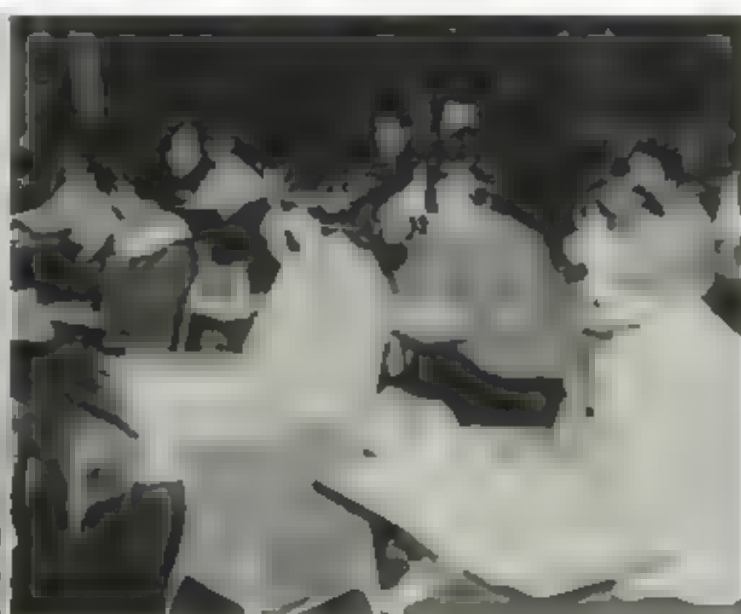

MR. WILLIAM D. MITCHELL, B.S.

During his first teaching position in a public school system, Mr. Mitchell instructed Democracy, U. S. History, and Economic Geography. A personality of immense individualism and varied interests, he has studied at Indiana University, Ball State Teachers College, Manchester College, and the University of Alaska.

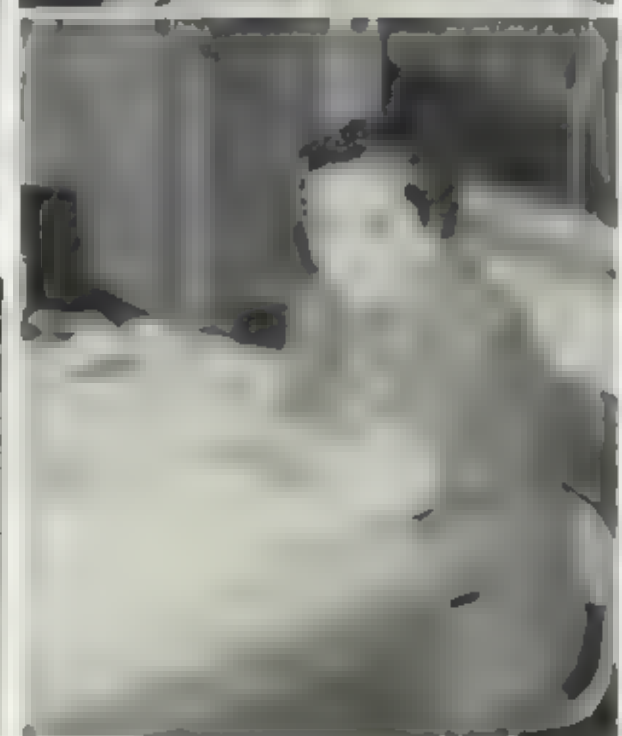

A world traveler, Mr. Mitchell shared with his classes his many experiences of military, political, and personal nature. Students found his teaching methods quite different and unique.

A different student, one day a week, taught Mr. Mitchell's classes. Many classes discussed the social problems of the school, community, and nation. Oral reports developed composure and leadership qualities.

Two World History classes taught by Mr. Peters met in the Home Ec. kitchen due to classroom shortage. They obtained knowledge of world governments, religions, leaders and problems.

CLASS ROOM MOODS

The moods of surprise, thoughtfulness, anger, pleasure, and helplessness were all seen in a typical day at MVHS.

From the lunch table to the teacher's desk, moods were a constant reminder that school is not all "HOMEWORK!"

MATHEMATICS — KEY

Members of the geometry classes found satisfaction and enjoyment when they successfully completed difficult problems.

The construction of geometric figures occupied part of many class periods. Each student utilized his knowledge of theorems and assumptions to draw them.

The math classes often used the new chalk board with graphs, sliding straight edge, and protractor.

MR. GEORGE EASTMAN, A.B.

Anyone needing assistance with a math problem received advice from Mr. Eastman. He taught Algebra I, Algebra II, Plane Geometry, Solid Geometry, and Trigonometry during the year - his fifth at Mississinawa.

Mr. Eastman has spent 39 years teaching, coaching, and in administration. He shares his logic, his philosophy of life and many years of experience with his students. During the summer months he does carpentry work.

Algebra II pupils learned advanced techniques involving equations with both positive and negative roots. This course is a stepping stone to higher mathematics.

NEW DISCOVERIES SPARKED

MRS. LINDA WULLSCHLEGER, B.S.

Mrs. Wullschleger, teacher of General Science, Chemistry, and Physics, confessed that she liked teaching Chemistry best. Instead of completing her last year of pharmacy, she decided to teach after receiving a degree in education at Southwestern State College in Oklahoma. Born and raised an Okie, Mrs. Wullschleger likes to play the piano and to fish.

Lab partners worked together performing chemistry experiments according to the scientific method.

One of the experiments done by the Physics class, consisting of five boys, dealt with static electricity.

Mrs. Wullschleger demonstrated many basic scientific operations before her General Science classes.

THE SCIENCE CLASSES

MRS. MARAGRET ELLEN OSWALT, B.S.

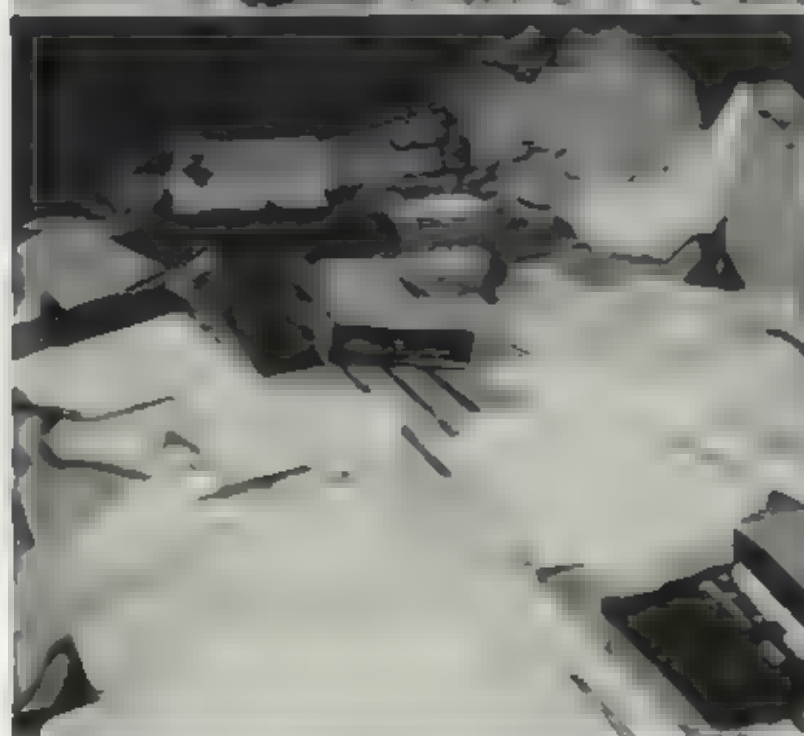

Mrs. Oswalt's schedule was well-filled with four Sophomore Biology classes, Advanced Biology, and Latin I and II. She was advisor of the Science Fair projects and the Brain Bee, as well as Junior Class Sponsor.

Next to seeing her three grandchildren, her special interests include cooking and gardening.

Sophomore Biology classes learned the essential principles of plant and animal life. Included in the course were studies of radiation and space biology.

Students in Advanced Biology, a course given for the first time, specialized in the study of multicellular life. A large part of the second semester was spent dissecting such animals as earthworms, grasshoppers, starfish, clams, fish, and frogs.

P.E. CLASSES DEVELOPED

MR. ROBERT BROWN, B.S., M.A.

Mr. Brown found time in his busy schedule as principal to instruct Boys' Physical Education one period.

His pet peeve is people asking what his pet peeve is. He spends his time reading, participating in and observing athletics, and working toward his doctorate degree.

Badminton was one of the sports which the Boys' Physical Education Class studied and played. Agility and swiftness were needed to succeed in this game.

MR. BILL BACK, A.B., M.A.

In addition to his duties as assistant principal and track coach, Mr. Back was instructor of Health and Boys' Physical Education.

Mr. Back, who played varsity basketball for two years at Cumberland College, Kentucky, enjoys all sports and likes to fish in small streams.

A STRONG BODY

MRS. JANET PETERS, B. S.

Mrs. Peters' vitality stimulated the Girls' Physical Education Classes. During her three years of teaching P. E. at Mississinawa, she has instilled the incentive for good sportsmanship among the girls. She was sponsor of the Girls' Athletic Association, which she originated at the Valley.

An I. U. graduate, she is now doing graduate work at Ball State University in Guidance.

S-T-E-A-D-Y! Building pyramids was only part of the fun in the tumbling classes. Upper-class girls learned more difficult stunts during the year.

MR. ROBERT PETERS
Indiana University, B. S.

Coach of both the basketball and baseball teams was Mr. Peters. During his first year as Varsity Coach, he also taught World History and Boys Physical Education in the Senior high and elementary grades.

Mr. Peters served in the U. S. Navy during the Korean War. He obtained his "sea-legs" in the two years he spent aboard ship in the Medical Department. His interests range from his love of coaching to golf, music and reading. He is a graduate student at Ball State University.

BAND ENCOURAGED

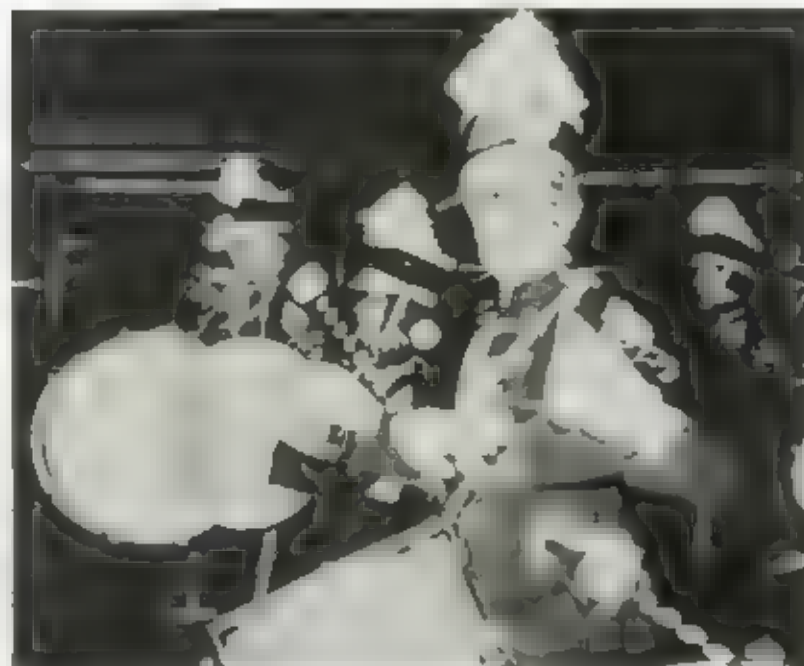

MR. EDWARD D. SNEDEKER

A.B., Morehead State College, K.

At the close of the day you would find Mr. Snedeker playing his organ, romping with his miniature dachshund, or feeding his tropical fish.

Mr. Snedeker, director of all instrumental music in both buildings, has spent 12 years teaching in the music field. His patience and calm appearance helped many of the students to overcome their nervousness on contest days.

It was a proud moment when the high stepping MV band placed 3rd among twelve bands at the Bradford Pumpkin Show. Included in this year's schedule were the Ansonia and Union City Halloween Parades, Versailles Sesquicentennial and the Darke County Fair. At the end of the marching season, the band displayed an outstanding concert season, participating in the district and state solo, band, and ensemble contests.

MUSICAL PARTICIPATION

With the increased enrollment, the PTA sponsored money-making projects to purchase new uniforms.

The seniors who have participated in band events during the past four years will always remember not only the fun times, but the wonderful part that the band played in his curriculum.

"Boy what a tiring rehearsal!"

CHORUS

MRS. ALNORA SNEDEKER, A.B.

Mrs. Snedeker's cheerful face always greeted the students as they walked into chorus class. Warming-up, which consisted of singing the scales and practicing exercises, preceded the actual rehearsal.

Mrs. Snedeker, a graduate of Morehead State College, was always willing to lend a helping hand; especially before those hectic days of district and state contests! Besides teaching vocal music to the elementary and high school, knitting and singing in the church choir occupy Mrs. Snedeker's time.

FUTURE NURSES CLUB

The FNA Club encouraged girls to enter the field of nursing. Many of the girls spent numerous hours after school working at the Union City Hospital feeding patients, passing trays, and adding a personal touch.

Under the leadership of Pres. - Susan Goughnour; V. - Pres. - Toni Davis; Sec. - Janet Boze; Treasurer - Evelyn Kester, and Cheryl Mills - Reporter, the club sponsored a FNA Dance held April 15. The highlight of the evening was the crowning of Rick Brooks as Little Abner and Patty Marks as Daisy Mae.

For the first time the club gave a $50 scholarship to a student entering the medical profession. The club also toured Springfield Hospital, Springfield, Ohio.

After the crowning ceremonies approximately 250 students were on hand to congratulate Little Abner and Daisy Mae.

FUTURE TEACHERS

This year was a very successful one for the F. T. A. The club's enthusiasm ran high, especially during the faculty basketball games. Other club activities included a St. Patrick's Day dance and a trip to Bowling Green University.

Student teaching gave the members an opportunity to discover both the pleasures and the frustrations that a teacher encounters in the classroom.

The Exchange Programs which were held with the Greenville and the Union City Community Chapters provided an enlightening experience for all.

Thanks to the support and hard work of the members, the club was able to sponsor two $100 scholarships.

The officers for the year were: Toni Davis, Pres.; Karen Boze, V. Pres.; Susan Goughmour, Treas.; Wanda Kochenaperger, Sec.; and Tom Partott, Rptr.

FUTURE FARMERS

In Vocational Agriculture much emphasis is placed on the development of leadership. Public speaking contests, judging of farm animals and crops, and participation district and state conventions were a few of the activities in which the members excel. The FFA Club, sponsored by Mr. Patrick, increased the members up to 40. The officers, Mike Price, Pres., Steve Anspaugh, V. Pres., Elden Hartzell, Treas.; Jack Grimes, Secy.; Rick Brooks, Repit.; John Barth, Chaplain, and Rex Livingston, Sentinel, instilled a desire in the other members to follow the FFA Motto: "Learning to Do, Doing to Learn, Earning to Live, and Living to Serve."

This year's FFA Sweetheart, Diane Timmerman, is surrounded by FFA Officers. Among those recognized for outstanding accomplishments were: Rick Brooks - 1st place in District 4 for his Reporter's Scrapbook; Mike Price - Silver Award in Extemporaneous Speaking in District 3; Mickey Whitesel - Grand Sweetstakes Award in Crops at the Darke County Fair.

HOMECOMING ROYALTY

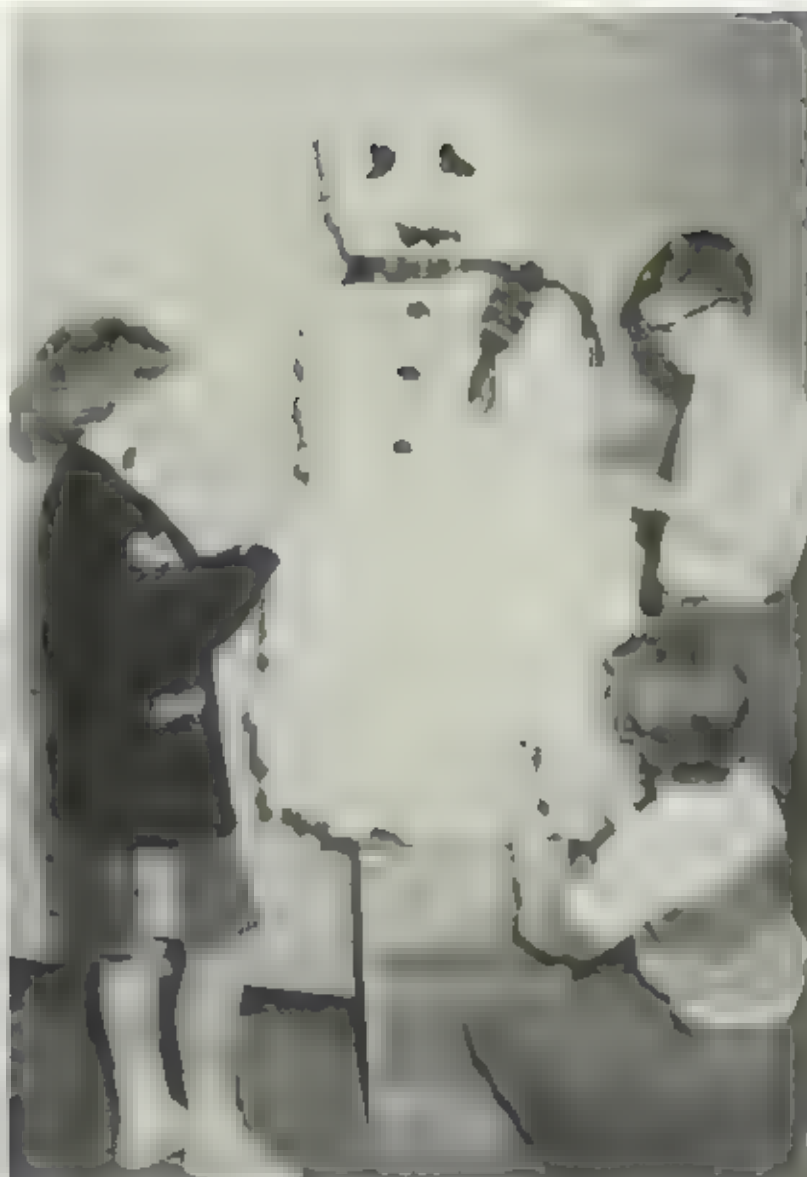

Queen Sharie and her court retired over the dance immediately following the victory over Bradford. Susan Goughnort, representing the N. H. A., was escorted by Mike Price; Jim Shoemaker escorted Tom Davis, the Science Club's candidate; Wanda Kocikasperger, escorted by Elden Hartzell, represented the F. T. A.; and Steve Auspauzt escorted the A. F. A. candidate, Mary Ellen Coppess.

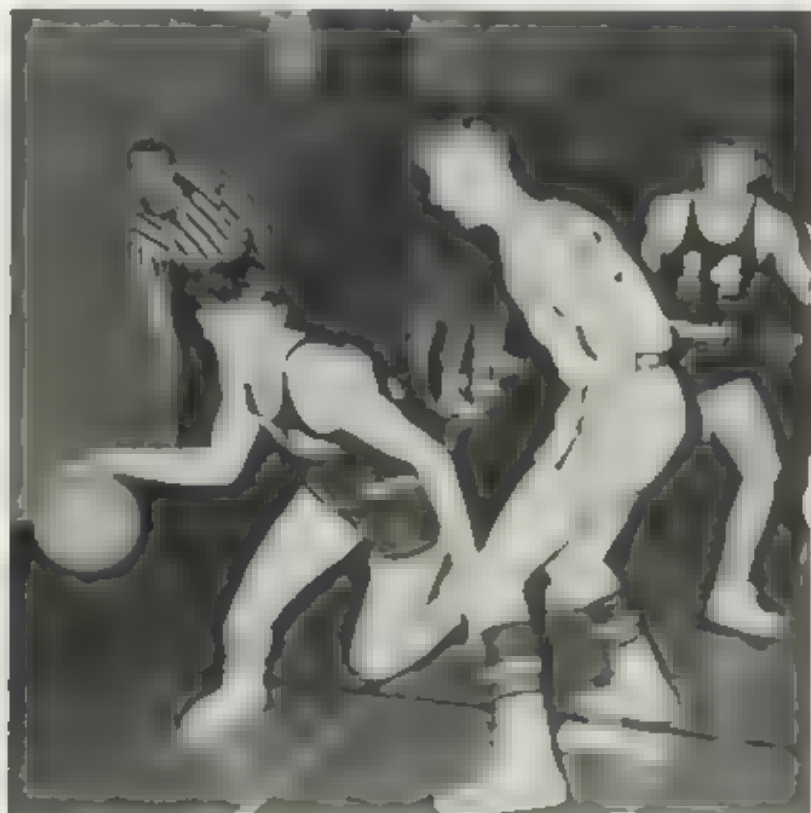

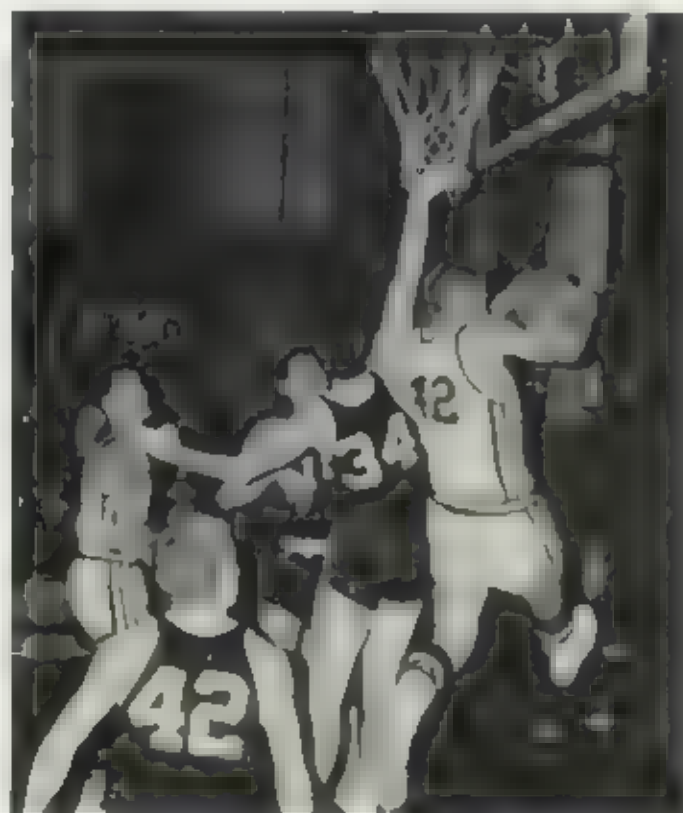

Between the reserve and varsity Bradford-Valley game, Miss Sharie Clark was crowned the 1945 Homecoming Queen by Lyle Barnum, Vice-president of the Student Council. Escorted by John Hurst, Sharie received red roses from Miss Karen Wenger, Homecoming Queen of 1944.

Delightful was the scene which the students encountered when they entered the gaily decorated cafeteria for the dance. The royalty was seated on a stage flooded with blue light. A snow-covered tree and delicate snowflakes were in the background. A jolly snowman was the center of attraction on the floor. Snowflakes again highlighted the combo corner.

The Student Council sponsored the successful festivities.

ENJOYED FESTIVITIES

Tradition was upheld as the thrilled spectators watched the team battle its way to an 86 to 72 victory. Barnum's magnificent rebounds against Bradford increased the crowd's enthusiasm.

SPRINGTIME

An excited air prevailed as Bert Huffer and Karen Short were crowned King and Queen of the prom.

Every night for three weeks members of the junior class worked on decorations. The gym was transformed into a Day in Paris with a blue Eiffel Tower occupying the center of the floor. The walls and ceiling were decorated in blue and silver, the senior class colors. A large map and posters of France adorned the east walls and a sidewalk cafe was featured on the west wall of the gym.

SOPHOMORES ATTEMPT TO RISE TO

Under the leadership of Don Crowell, president; Rex Livingston, vice-president; Pam Wade, secretary; Nancy Hummel, treasurer; and Cathy Oswalt, reporter; the sophomores were guided step by step in their activities. These activities included the famous Sophomore Dance at which the class favorites, selected by penny votes, are crowned after a suspense-filled moment of waiting for the announcement.

BUCKEYE STAFF

A guardlight glances through the trees and settles on the disheveled typing room. Typewritten pages litter the tables and empty coke bottles line the windowsill. An air of urgency prevails--but it's a calm, orderly type of urgency. These people are professionals working toward a common goal . . .

What is going on? You are right - it's a unified yearbook staff working toward its final deadline.
